

Shiny Ordinary Family Moments
in the time of Coronavirus

It feels like we are living on islands at sea.

We can wave to our neighbours but they can't come to tea.

We can talk with each other on the net and the phone, Sharing and knowing we are not on our own.

Our own family island has found treasure around, Although it's not from a chest and it's not underground.

Treasure in ordinary moments discovered, Silently, waiting for us to uncover.

These shiny small moments are helping us through,
Playing and smiling and finding lots that is new.

Now it's not always roses, living closely as one,
We still squabble and lose it, which has not been fun.

Family islands are doing their best to get through this,
If you've found treasure like ours, please share how you do this.

We will stay on our islands and be with each other,
And the virus will leave because we helped one another.

Then the water between our islands will go like before,
And our islands will join up together once more.

A Collection of Shiny Ordinary Moments

- Dancing around our lounge room with the music turned up
- Movies with microwave popcorn
- Walks around the neighbourhood spotting bears and rainbows (Does your family have some shiny ordinary moments to add to the collection?)
